Aalto University

Providing and Utilizing Feedback (3 or 5 ECTS)

In this course the following questions are discussed: How to collect feedback more efficiently? How to utilize different kinds of feedback in developing your own course/teaching or module/degree program? How to provide feedback to students and colleagues at the university? Depending on your interest and needs you can choose whether you want to do a 3 or 5 cr version of the course.

Learning outcomes

After the course you:
- have widened your understanding of feedback.
- recognise different types and sources of feedback
- have some concrete means to collect and utilise feedback systematically
- you have written a process description of how feedback is collected and utilized in your department
- are able to provide feedback to different actors, e.g., student, and program leaders
- are able to write an action plan to develop instructional process based on feedback (5cr)

Course content:
- Concepts of feedback, feed up, feed forward
- Theoretical viewpoints related to use of feedback
- Receiving and providing useful feedback
- Providing and utilizing feedback at different levels of teaching organization

Language
English

Assessment
Pass/ Fail

Pre-requisites
To be eligible, you must have completed A! Peda Intro (5 cr) or other similar introductory course to university pedagogy before the beginning of the training.

Aalto University
Päivi Kinnunen
Firstname.Lastname@aalto.fi
+358 50 436 4699