Really nice to work together and the output is excellent even though the topic was difficult to manage, so I would personally think that we were the best :D
The atmosphere of the group was so relaxed and flexible. Deadlines for group work were met on time. Everyone was contributing as much as they could very willingly. There was good communication and flow of information. We could have spend a little more time working together.
I liked working in this group a lot. I felt like i was able to learn the course subjects well trough the reading circles and case project, and also just about how to effectively work in a group. Everybody did what they said they would on time, which is also a big plus.
My group worked well together and everyone was tolerant about each other's ideas. Everyone was also motivated which boosted the morale of the group.
Having talked to other students during the course who had a lot of difficulty with their groups, I am especially grateful that our group dynamics worked so well! It was a pleasure working with a group that was truly interested in the subject. I think we can all agree that we should've trusted our knowledge more and started writing the report earlier but I'm still proud of our end result. I do think the workload between group members was somewhat uneven though I appreciate that we didn't have any free rider problems.
Sometimes it was hard to follow and than I felt a little bit left behind but most of the time I got help.
I was so lucky to get into this good group! All of our members were passionate about our case study and also participated and communicated very well. With this kind of group it was easy to be on schedule and get things done.
Overall morale of the group remain quite high. One member remained absent from group for sometime but still as a team we managed quite well.
This course was a great learning experience thanks to our group. It was nice and easy to work together, and I feel like everyone got to utilize their skills somehow. Some of the best things in our group were that everyone was flexible, open to new ideas and motivated to work on the case study.
I was really happy with how the group worked together and I felt like that e learnt really well together. I think we all became much clearer on the case-study topic and have a much better understanding of global water governance now - the time that we spent working together, brainstorming and drawing diagrams was really fun. I only wished that we could have spent more time working together than we did! Would be happy to work with this group of people again :)
Our group functioned overall really well! Everyone contributed to the tasks equally, and we had great ideas in our brainstorming sessions. Relating to that, we could've had more meetings and work less separately.
Our group had a unique situation where 3/4 members were not present for 1 or 2 weeks during the course. Even with this challenge, our group was able to manage the workload accordingly. I believe everyone was also satisfied with our team's end product with the presentation and report.
Our group had a tricky situation, where three of the members were away for part of the course. However, we communicated well through the course and managed to balance the workload evenly between the team members. This team was pleasant and easy to work with and we had interesting conversations.
I my opinion, our group worked well together and everyone did their part as well as they could. Maybe the parts of our case study could've been shared more evenly, but at the beginning we didn't know how much work each section required and everyone familiarize in their parts more along the course.
We already discussed about these in the final session, but I feel our group worked nicely. Some improvement could be done with dividing the tasks more evenly and that everyone would take enough responsibility. Good, relaxed atmosphere, it was easy to say my own opinion :)
Group had great discussion and collaboration, but having members gone at different times made it difficult. The flexibility and teamwork helped our group, but looking back I see that my communication was not as clear as it could have been and I would have done it differently
Our group worked well. Everyone has time to focus on our group work and everyone seemed genuinely interested in HSY. We collaborated well and we often gathered outside of lecture time to discuss our next steps. We worked on our project for the whole period and we didn't have to rush it in the end which was great. I wish that we would have distributed the workload more evenly. Now I feel like I didn't contribute as much as the rest.
