

Blog Posts: Some comments

- Use them to find your “go to” tone. Is it academic? Is it personal? Is it narrative?
- Don’t be afraid to try something new! Posts go through a filter (me), and they can always be reworked.
- Remember to include literature, reflecting on it - not just citing it!
- Your reflections, feelings, key memories and personal “spinoff” is what makes your post memorable.
- Remember, writing a blog is as if you were talking to me, but narrating a story at the same time.

Make this a back and forth conversation to aid your learning:

- If there are comments that stayed on your mind, let’s discuss them.
- If you’re unsure of something before writing the blog, let’s talk.
