23.1.-3.2.2023

ASSIGNMENT 0 – pre-assignment

Find a film which (or parts of which) has been created or done in a manner that deviates from the assumed norm. You can decide for yourself, which aspect of the film or making of the film you want to study. You could, for instance, focus your attention on different methods in post-production, or different ways to develop stories or content. You could even choose acting as a part of your interest.

Present the methods of the chosen film as well as the reasons why you chose that film/methods for your subject. Also, present how those could be useful for you and your film team in creating film.

You have about 5 minutes time for your presentation on 23rd of January when we start the course.

The aim is not to present the film itself except for the parts that are unavoidable for the understandability of your presentation.

Feel free to mail/ask if you have questions.
